- CLIMATE

In Poland spring starts in March with temperatures oscillating between -1 and +20°C. It lasts until end of June when summer begins. July is the hottest month but the rest of the summer is also quite warm with temperatures from 21 to 32°C. The beginning of September is still pretty warm. Then there is autumn when it's sunny and it can be really nice and warm. However there might be a lot of rain and it can get quite cold. Days become colder until December, when winter begins and temperature oscillates between few degrees above 0°C and sometimes even minus 25°C. Winters last from December to March and include shorter or longer periods of snow. In high mountains snow lies till May.
